Februray 2025 Newsletter

As February settles in and winter continues to unfold its chilly charm, we hope you've been keeping warm!

Even in the midst of the cold, there's something magical about stepping outside to enjoy nature's serene beauty. Whether it's a brisk walk or simply watching the peaceful winter landscapes, we hope you find moments to connect with the outdoors.

Show your Support for a National Marine Conservation Area on the South Coast

The South Coast of Newfoundland and Labrador is full of natural beauty, cultural significance, and ecological importance. Yet, its future relies on actions we take today. By supporting the establishment of a National Marine Conservation Area (NMCA) in this remarkable region, we have an opportunity to safeguard vital marine ecosystems, foster sustainable economic growth, and ensure a thriving future for generations to come.

Please consider joining this letter-writing campaign to amplify the call for the South Coast NMCA and demonstrate that residents of Newfoundland and Labrador value and support this vision for conservation and sustainable development.

Species Spotlight: Moose!

In Newfoundland's winter, moose move with quiet grace. Built for cold conditions, these large mammals sport a thick coat that protects them in sub-zero temperatures.

More than just a winter resident, the moose is a familiar symbol of Newfoundland's rugged landscape. Whether you're navigating snowy trails or simply enjoying the winter scenery, you might catch a glimpse of these impressive creatures.
